Transgenderism is a Jewish Project – TERFs and the Transgender Industrial Complex (Book)

A Massachusetts organization named Political Research Associates published a fascinating article in which they basically admit that Jews are behind the push for transgenderism.

> It's notable that anti-trans feminists are employing similar racist dog-whistles that have been used by the Right for centuries to create out-sized fear and outrage among their constituents and followers to justify the out-sized time and energy spent advocating against the lives and safety of the communities they target. Disproportionality has also been weaponized to attack Jewish people, ingrained in the conspiracy theory that Jewish people control the world economy. Conservative publication The Washington Times ran a piece on this false claim, with an additional racist meme illustrated to depict Soros with features frequently used to stereotype Jewish people. Evidence of antisemitism by anti-trans "feminists" is present throughout its academic history.

The idea that disproportionately is a concept used to attack jews is not only true, but funny they should mention it. When we said math would become White supremacist, we weren't joking. Jews were behind civil rights, which disproportionately affects non-Whites to the detriment of Whites; Jews are also disproportionately in positions of power throughout Western societies; and Jews are responsibly for the importation of non-Whites into White countries, who go on to disproportionately use the welfare systems of those countries and commit disproportionate amounts of crime. A new book entitled "The Transgender Industrial Complex" has some fascinating tidbits.

> The history of transgenderism as we know it is believed to have originated in Jewish circles in early 20th century Germany, but Howard's research shows that references to breaking down gender in Jewish circles go back to the 14th century, hundreds of years before Martha Baer, a B'nai B'rith member in Germany, became the world's first "sex-change" operation recipient. There is an interesting anecdote where a Jew involved in gender ideology converted to Catholicism and exposed the movement as an attempt to provoke moral chaos in European host societies. Magnus Hirschfeld is generally credited with creating the ideological rationale for "Trans" and "queerness" more broadly, but it was a Hirschfeld adept named Henry Gerber who imported the bizarre doctrine to the United States via "The Society for Human Rights" in Chicago.

This is essentially the history of the Frankfurt school, critical race theory and the hotbed of sexual perversion. Not only this book being released, but the largest study ever conducted on Transgenders and their psychology has findings that are simply stunning.

> The team used five different datasets, including a dataset of over 500,000 individuals…In these datasets, participants had provided information about their gender identity, and if they received a diagnosis of autism or other psychiatric conditions such as depression or schizophrenia. Participants also completed a measure of autistic traits. Strikingly, across all five datasets, the team found that transgender and gender-diverse adult individuals were between three and six times more likely to indicate that they were diagnosed as autistic compared to cisgender individuals.

In other words, transgenderism is "rather than being a biological flaw for man to correct through drugs and surgery, the lifestyle and practice of wanting to change your sex is merely a type of aggressive autism with psychiatric co-morbidities such as schizophrenia." And that is the point: transgenderism is not a problem of body, but of mind that will not conform to reality, the reality that transgenders are psychotic.
